Administration Ready To Draw State-Federal Line On T-H

Rights Of Each To Be Determined

Washington — The Eisenhower administration was reported yesterday about ready to tell Congress where it thinks the line should be drawn between state and federal authority in labor-management relations.

Sen. H. Alexander Smith (R-NJ), chairman of the Senate Labor Committee, said he will ask the committee to give the recommendation immediate attention. The proposal is expected to ask Congress for a precise clarification of present confusion between state and federal jurisdiction.

The President already has sent Congress 14 proposals to change the Taft-Hartley Labor law. Among them was clarification of state and federal rights, but he omitted the details. He said he would recommend specific legislation after a study of the problem had been completed. But he said:

"The act should make clear that the several states and territories when confronted with emergencies endangering the health or safety of their citizens, are not through any conflict with federal law, actual or implied, deprived of the right to deal with such emergencies."

Sen. Ives (R-NY) said in a recent radio interview with Rep. Keating (R-NY) that "the line has got to be drawn so that things which really are fundamentally state should be left to the states."

Republicans and some Southern Democrats who are otherwise in basic agreement with the Taft-Hartley law have complained for years that it gives the federal government too much jurisdiction in labor-management disputes and restricts state activity. Some states which have pioneered in labor legislation resent what they term interference from Taft-Hartley.

Rhee Renews 'Fight Alone' Unity Talk

Pusan, Korea, Monday (AP)—President Syngman Rhee told 30,000 rain-soaked countrymen yesterday that South Korean forces would fight alone to unify the country if the Allies did not help.

"We shall surely join hands with our brethren and march up to the borders of our ancient homeland again," Rhee said in an address marking the 35th anniversary of a bloody demonstration against Japanese occupation.

"We hope that our allies will stand with us and will march with us," said the Republic of Korea Chief Executive. "But if they do not join with us, we shall have to go forward alone."

Rhee's prepared address, made before a rally in this big port city, did not mention the April 26 Geneva conference called by the Big Four powers to take up the question of Korea's unification and the Indochina War.

A Korean public information office spokesman said the speech was prepared before the Big Four decided in Berlin to hold the Geneva conference. All the nations that fought in Korea have been invited, but South Korea had not decided—up until yesterday, at least—whether to attend.

Rhee has warned repeatedly the South Korean Army would attempt to drive the Chinese Reds out of North Korea if unification of the country is not achieved at a political conference.

No Gas Lines Will Be Built

Washington (AP)—Rep. Fenton (R-Pa) was told in testimony made public yesterday that the government is not building any oil or gas pipelines in the United States and does not contemplate building any.

Fenton, a member of the House Appropriations Committee, made the inquiry during consideration of a bill to provide money for the Interior Department during the year beginning July 1.

Air-Ground Search For 'Scorched Spot' Is Failure When Team Coordination Fizzles

Snow Hill—A searching party in the woods Saturday waited seven hours for the plane which was to show them where a "scorched spot" had been sighted.

The men on the ground and the pilot missed connections. The wait was fruitless.

It was one of the latest attempts to solve the riddle posed by Mr. and Mrs. Charles LaBar, caretakers of the Easton Anglers Assn. property here. The LaBars Tuesday night said they saw a fiery object fall and hit the ground about 8:10 p.m.

Working on the possibility that the falling object might have been a plane, woodsmen tramped back and forth throughout the area on each succeeding day.

Civil Air Patrol planes crisscrossed the area too. So did private planes from airports throughout the area.

Nobody could find a thing.

It was after such a fruitless search late Friday afternoon that four of the woodsmen were approached by "Army men" who arranged a coordinated air-ground search scheduled for Saturday.

Frank Smith, deputy game warden from Marshalls Creek, was one of the four woodsmen.

He said a "Col. Blitz" and "two secret intelligence" men from the Army had asked the four woodsmen to have a search party in the woods by 9 a.m. Saturday.

An army plane was to fly over and drop a smoke grenade on a "scorched spot" that one of the "Army pilots" had seen, Smith said. Then the men on the ground were to go to the spot marked by the grenade and see what was there.

The deputy evidently referred to Gerald Blitz, a CAP lieutenant from Milford who told The Daily Record last night that he had set up Saturday's air-ground search.

Smith and 11 other men met at the Easton Anglers Assn. club at 7:30 a.m. Saturday. They hiked five miles into the dense woods, across two streams, over two hills, and past two swamps.

Six of the group stationed themselves on a promontory known as Coolbaugh Ledges, a famous breeding ground for rattlers. The other six split up and scattered throughout the area to keep watch for the smoke signal.

Nine o'clock came and went. No plane.

$13,300 Is Sought By Volunteers

The American Red Cross 1954 Campaign for Members and Funds Opens this morning. In Monroe County, a proclamation by the County Commissioners this morning formally opens Red Cross Month.

Tonight the fire companies of both towns will put up street banners after their regular drills. Red Cross posters will appear in store windows, and special gifts are already being received at Red Cross headquarters.

Heart of the Monroe County campaign, however, is the house-to-house canvass, and in every township and district a small army of volunteers are preparing to go out to ask their neighbors to "Join and Serve". The campaign is not for contributions alone but for memberships in the Red Cross, and it is essentially home visitation with all members of the family invited to join.

The quota for funds in Monroe County is $13,300, and the goal for memberships is double the number of last year. J. Richard Altomose, 1954 Fund Campaign chairman, with the help of his planning committee has enlisted captains in each district of the county, who are choosing their workers in each neighborhood. Many of them are serving again after many previous campaigns. Some are new to the work, but all of them are pledged to a thorough canvass of the whole community.

Edred Rhodes is captain in Stroudsburg where a quota of $4,300 has been set. He will be assisted by district captains: Charles Bruch, Mrs. J. L. Cohen, Mrs. Merle Stevenson, Mrs. Mahlen Serfass and Mrs. James Coleman, who will in turn have block workers.

Carl Secor will captain the whole of East Stroudsburg, whose quota is $2,300. Captains in the wards include Mrs. Clement Wiedinger, Mrs. David Bernbaum, Mrs. Jack Wyckoff, Mrs. Richard Altomose, Mrs. Elton Hall, Mrs. Joseph Zacharias, with their volunteers.

Stroud Township, with a quota of $800 is being subdivided this year because of population growth in many of its sections. Seven captains with their co-workers will cover the districts. They are: Mrs. Holt Wyckoff Jr., Mrs. Fred Quig, Mrs. Stewart Swartley, Mrs. Paul Albert, Mrs. Dale Learn, Mrs. Thomas Bennett Jr., and William Hawn.

In the other districts single captains and co-captains will work with their canvassers.

Mrs. Andrew Lewis is chairman in Barrett, whose quota is $2,300. Mrs. Homer Shupp is chairman in Chestnut Hill, with a quota of $300.

Mrs. James Lynch will captain Coolbaugh's drive for $200.

In Delaware Water Gap, Mrs. Jack LaBar will be captain, with a quota of $200.

Eldred, too, has a $200 quota, and there Mrs. Adan Bohner is captain.

Mrs. Charles Hobbs will captain Hamilton's drive for $275.

In Jackson, Mrs. Maxwell Hoffman will captain the drive for $140.

Mrs. William Altier is the new captain in Middle Smithfield, whose quota is $200.

Mrs. Louis Ingersoll has been enlisted as captain in Mt. Pocono, where the quota is $250.

Mrs. Ethel Wakefield will be captain in Paradise where the goal is $225; and Fred Hill will be captain in Pocono Township with a quota of $350. Both are veteran captains.

Mrs. William Anthony will be captain in Polk's drive for $100; and Mrs. Ambrose Altomose in the Ross campaign for $135.

Mrs. William Roullette and Mrs. Hattie Bishop will be co-captains in Smithfield's campaign for $700. Mrs. Gerald Hanna will be captain in Tobyhanna Township's drive for $200; and Mrs. Isaac Henning and Mrs. George Wrick will try to surpass Tunkhannock's quota of $25.

All captains are urged to submit the names of their workers, and the contributions as they are received to the Red Cross headquarters as soon as possible. Scoreboards of district standings will be published.

Five Killed, One Trapped, 20 Injured By Explosion In South Philadelphia

Philadelphia (AP)—A deafening explosion blew two 3-story buildings to destruction in heavily-populated South Philadelphia last night, killing five persons.

At least one other woman was trapped inside in a first floor phone booth. Firemen and civil defense officials worked frantically to clear away the rubble and save her.

At least 29 persons were injured. The blast occurred at the corner of 7th and Snyder Sts., some three miles from the center of the city. Nearly 500 persons were routed from nearby apartments and homes.

A jewelry store and snack shop were on the main floor of the adjoining buildings. The upper floors contained apartments. The snack shop was open at the time of the blast.

When firemen arrived both brick structures were reduced to a 25-foot high pile of rubble.

"There was a white flash," said 19-year-old Jacqueline Mickelberg, who lives across narrow 7th St. from the wrecked buildings.

"The whole house shook. The windows rattled and then cracked off and fell to the floor."

"I ran out in the street after the white flash of the explosion. I could hear screams but couldn't tell if they came from the wrecked house or other buildings."

The blast threw the neighborhood into a turmoil. The snack shop was a favorite hangout of teenagers.

One by one, men, women and children who had been caught under the tons of debris were brought out—some dead, some alive.

The injured were taken to St. Agnes, Methodist and Mt. Sinai Hospitals and the Einstein Medical Center. Most were treated for burns, shock and hysteria.

Panic-stricken residents poured into the streets following the blast. Many began calling for their children and other relatives. Firemen were hampered by the throngs and confusion.

No cause was given for the blast but Deputy Fire Commissioner George Hink said "There were reports of gas leaks."

Utility officials quickly shut off all gas lines in the area to prevent further explosions due to escaping gas.

McCarthy Says Pentagon's Report Is In Conflict

New York (AP)—Sen. Joseph McCarthy (R-Wis) said yesterday that Friday's Pentagon report on the discharge of an Army dentist was in direct conflict with testimony given before his committee by Brig. Gen. Ralph Zwicker.

McCarthy's questioning of Zwicker precipitated a controversy between the senator and Army Secretary Stevens, and has since led to congressional investigations.

Referring to the Pentagon statement detailing how the dentist was given an honorable discharge following an Army security investigation, and giving the Army's reasons for its action, McCarthy said: "This is in direct conflict with General Zwicker's sworn testimony."

He then said he thought Zwicker might have been brought back for more questioning before McCarthy's Permanent Investigations Subcommittee.

McCarthy said Gen. Zwicker might have been "honestly mistaken" in giving his original version of the affair.

Referring to an Associated Press report of the Pentagon statement Friday, McCarthy added:

"Either Zwicker was mistaken or guilty of perjury, or the AP story and my investigators were wrong."

McCarthy, questioned by newsmen as he left for Washington, said he was going to send a "friendly letter" to Army Secretary Stevens about the Pentagon report.

Inter-America Group Meeting Starts Today

Caracas, Venezuela (AP)—A high barbed wire fence surrounded nearby University City yesterday, and scores of plainclothesmen swarmed its buildings as tight security measures were taken for the opening of the 10th Inter-American Conference today.

With foreign ministers and other high officials from 20 of the 21 American republics converging on Caracas, Venezuelan authorities took firm steps to prevent any recurrence of the wild rioting which marred the last Inter-American Conference in Bogota, Colombia, in April 1948. U. S. authorities blamed international communism for the outbreak of street violence and fires in Bogota which claimed about 1,500 lives.

U. S. Secretary of State John Foster Dulles and his top advisers on Latin American affairs flew in from Washington yesterday. One of Dulles' main tasks will be to convince the Latin Americans that Communism is menacing the Western hemisphere and that a stronger anti-Communist program is necessary.

John Moors Cabot, outgoing assistant secretary of state for Inter-American affairs and newly designated U. S. ambassador to Sweden is a member of Dulles' party.

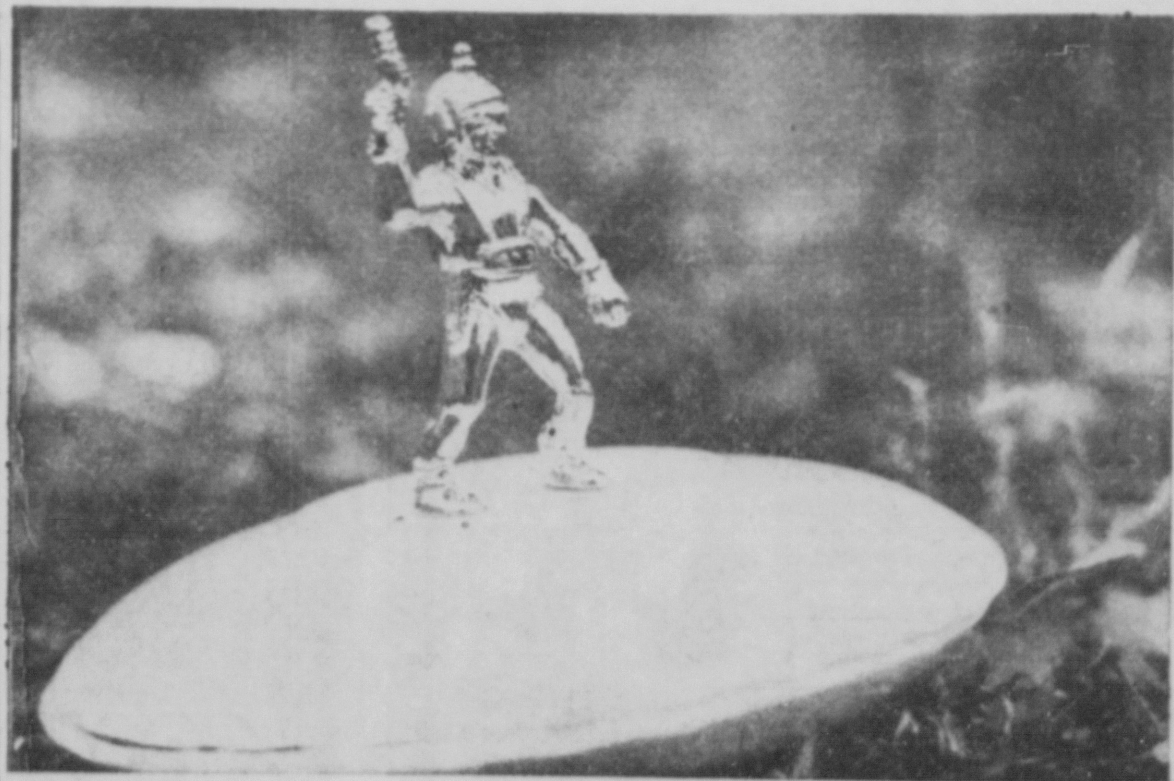

Cabot recently expressed the fear that Latin American countries are not sufficiently worried about Communism "to want to take a strong stand regarding the situation."

One tough problem in which the conference is likely to get entangled concerns Guatemala, whose leftist government, U. S. officials believe, has become deeply impregnated with Communism. The U. S. delegation had hoped to make this a clear-cut issue, but a sampling of opinion among other states apparently convinced the Washington policy makers they could not win support for an outright condemnation of the Guatemalan government.

Several delegation heads, including Foreign Ministers Geronimo Remorino of Argentina and Vicente Rao of Brazil, have made it clear they do not intend to consider Communism in specific countries but rather as a hemispheric problem.

Guatemalan Foreign Minister Guillermo Toriello said his country does not intend to "take a seat on the bench of the accused" during the conference. He appeared confident other Latin American countries will heed Guatemala's warning that any declaration against that country would be considered intervention in its internal affairs.

Most of the Latin American republics feel that economic problems are vastly more important than Communist penetration of the hemisphere.

A SHIP OF CROCKERY—Photographer Rod MacLeod was one of searchers who hunted evidence of mysterious "fireball." Later he told friends: "We waited for the search plane. I felt an airy sensation. I aimed my camera and tripped the shutter by instinct. I don't remember any more." Later MacLeod developed the film, found something that resembles a man from space waving a menacing weapon. Ship faintly suggests covered dish supper. No one else in party noticed anything unusual during trip. MacLeod says picture is a genuine photograph. (Daily Record Photo)

Leader Makes Sales Tax Prime Issue

Harrisburg (AP) — Sen. George M. Leader, organization-backed candidate for the Democratic nomination for governor, made the Republican-imposed state sales tax a major issue yesterday in Pennsylvania's 1954 political campaign.

"I opposed the tax in the Legislature because it penalized the little people of the commonwealth," the 36-year-old York County Senator told a reporter. "I think there are far more equitable taxes than the sales tax."

The state's one percent sales tax, with exemptions for food and some other necessities, was passed by the 1953 legislature exclusively with Republican votes. Democrats opposed it solidly both in the House and Senate. Unless re-enacted by the 1955 legislature it will expire automatically on Sept. 1, 1955.

Leader, who received endorsement as organization gubernatorial candidate by the Democratic policy committee last week, said not only the sales tax but "all taxes" would figure in the coming campaign.

But he parried further questions on the tax issue, saying that campaign objectives will be outlined "in full" in the party's platform. Leader said he would make his position clear on all issues when the platform is adopted.

Leader, who is a York County poultry farmer, did say, however, that he opposes wiping out the State Milk Control Commission, which fixes minimum prices of milk in the state. Other Democrats frequently have advocated dropping that commission.

"There may be changes needed in operation of the Milk Control Law but I'm not prepared to discuss them now," Leader told an interviewer.

While Democratic leaders still huddled over organization candidates for lieutenant governor and secretary of internal affairs, Republican politics went into the background for the time being, at least on the surface.

The next major GOP move expected is appointment of a primary campaign manager by L. G. Lloyd H. Wood, organization candidate for governor, on his return from a Florida vacation in mid-March.

Two independent candidates have appeared to challenge the GOP organization slate.

William S. Livengood Jr., Secretary of Internal Affairs for four terms, had declared his intention of filing nominating petitions for a fifth term this week. Republican state makers dropped Livengood in favor of Mrs. Gaynelle Dixon of Butler.

Thomas S. Stephenson, Altoona, for 25 years president of the Pennsylvania Home Rule Assn., has declared his candidacy for governor, opposing Wood. Stephenson said he might be joined on an independent ticket by other state-wide candidates. The Association has worked for years for a larger amount of state aid for highways for local governments.

Leader also faced the prospect of opposition for the Democratic nomination for governor. Coroner William D. McClelland, of Allegheny County, said Leader's endorsement made no immediate change in his plans to run for governor but he did not make a flat statement he would make the race. McClelland filed for the executive post four years ago but later withdrew.

The Democratic Policy Committee, after slating Leader for governor, put off until Friday, endorsement of candidates for lieutenant governor and secretary of internal affairs.

Names discussed for those posts include Sen. Eustace H. Bane (D-Fayette); Rep. Harris G. Breth (D-Clearfield); and Miss Genevieve Blatt, Pittsburgh, secretary of the Democratic State Committee.

E. J. Somers Station WVPO Sales Manager

Edward J. Somers, Mountain home, has been named sales manager for Radio Station WVPO.

He is 26 years old, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Somers, Mountainhome. Somers was first employed by WVPO in January, 1952. Prior to this he had been employed by the Inn at Buck Hill Falls and DeVivo, Quaresimo and Sons store in Stroudsburg.

A 1943 graduate of Stroudsburg High School he also attended East Stroudsburg State Teachers College and Scranton University. He is a member of St. Ann's Catholic Church, Canadensis.

Somers also holds membership in Barrett Lions Club, George N. Kemp Post of The American Legion and the Holy Name Society of St. Ann's Church.

Following graduation from high school he entered service in the U. S. Navy where he was stationed at the U. S. Navy Recruiting Station in Dallas, Texas and on board the USS Ogletorpe.

Somers is not married.

Air Ground Search Fails

On the Ledges, the six men had built a bonfire in a clearing so that they would not be missed from the air.

At 10:15 a second and differently-marked plane came in low, flew one slow circle, then disappeared.

Next to appear was one of Harold T. Hamlen's planes from East Stroudsburg airport. He flew a tight circle, then kept circling outward in ever-widening spirals—obviously looking for something. Finally he too disappeared.

At 11:30 the six spotters joined the group on the Ledges. None had seen any smoke signal or anything drop from any of the planes.

The dozen men waited until 1:30 p.m. Then some of them left.

Two remained at the spot until after 2 p.m., then they too hiked out of the woods.

None of the group heard anything further from the planes, the pilots, the Army or CAP.

Contacted at home last night Lt. Blitz said he had flown out to the agreed spot near the Snow Hill fire tower in the afternoon.

He said he saw some men a few hundred yards into the woods, and three cars parked on the road.

Blitz said he dropped three messages to the men from 2 p.m. to 3 p.m. The last message asked if they wanted him to drop a smoke grenade at the scorched spot.

The men on the ground, Blitz said, spelled out "FINISH" on the road by using white cards. "So I guessed that they wanted to call it off for some reason," he added. Then he flew back to the airport.

Blitz said that while flying he had seen a place where the tree tops had been clipped in a straight line, for about a quarter of a mile. It did not appear to have been done by an ice storm, he said.

Asked if he saw anything else, Blitz said yes, but that he had

Seven Killed, 26 Injured, In Hotel Fire

Grossinger, N. Y. (AP) — Seven employees were killed and 26 injured yesterday in an early morning fire which flashed through a staff residence on the grounds of the widely known Grossinger Hotel and country club.

The guest quarters of the huge establishment were not endangered and most of the hotel's 900 guests were unaware of the blaze, a Grossinger spokesman said.

Included among those injured were a number who jumped from upper windows of the burning two-and-one-half story stucco-covered frame structure.

All who fled were clad only in nightclothes. The condition of one of the injured was listed as serious.

Fire authorities estimated the damage at $30,000.

The dead were all trapped in the building, investigators said.

Grossinger's is the largest and best known hotel in the Catskills Mountains resort area, 100 miles north of New York City, popularly referred to as the "borscht belt."

Among the guests at the hotel unaware of the fire was Rocky Marciano, world's heavyweight boxing champion, who has his training camp on the grounds.

The fire, of undetermined cause, was discovered in an upper story about 6 a.m. EST.

The dead were identified as Fred Haas, 51, and his wife Erna, 49, employed in the snack canteen; Miss Sannie Rosenthal, 39, waitress; David Bernstein, 30, and his wife Hannah, 32, waiter and office employee respectively; Miss Catherine Krick, 45, of Youngsville, a weekend employee; Jack Shildkret, 40, of Ellenville, another weekend worker. The first five lived permanently on the hotel grounds.

Only one of the injured was reported in serious condition. She is Miss Anna Rubenstein, 58, of Liberty, a waitress.

The 27-room building in which 65 hotel workers were housed was gutted.

The building was several hundred feet from the main hotel, at the bottom of a hill.

been ordered by Air Intelligence not to say anything about "what I've seen."

At Mitchell Field, N. Y., Maj. Charles Blanding last night said that it was he who had sent two enlisted men to investigate reports of the "fireball" Thursday.

Maj. Blanding said the two enlisted men had talked with Blitz, the LaBarrs, and several others in search parties, and conducted a routine investigation.

Asked if an Army pilot had seen any "scorched spot" at the area, Maj. Blanding said, "As far as I know, Blitz was the only one who spotted anything at all. Not an Army pilot."

The major said Saturday's search was Blitz' idea. Asked if Blitz had been placed under secrecy wraps, the major said definitely not—that Blitz was free to say anything he wished about the results of his air observations.

When given this information last night, Blitz had little further to add to what he had said about the clipped tree-tops.

Only new development: Blitz said it was he who had seen "a scorched spot" in the area. He saw it once on the first time he went up for an air search, on Wednesday. It appeared to be about a half mile from the clipped tree-tops. He didn't see it in any subsequent searches, he said.

Blitz said the Air Force has been supplying the gas for the air searches by the local CAP members. Blitz and other CAP men have flown in shifts each

Commercial Tags Expire On June 1

Apparently unaware that their license tags are valid until June 1, 1954, owners of commercial motor vehicles are besieging the Revenue Department for renewal applications.

State Secretary of Revenue Otto F. Messner points out that about this time last year owners of trucks and other vehicles used for commercial purposes paid a licensing fee for 14 months instead of the usual 12.

That payment meant that 1953 plates were good for an extra two months, or until the end of May 1954 instead of March. Hereafter, the renewal date for tags for commercial vehicles will be June 1.

Applications for 1954 tags for commercial vehicles, Messner says, will be mailed to owners around the middle of April.

The change-over was provided for in an amendment to the Motor Vehicle Code passed by the 1951 State Legislature. Chief purpose was to stagger the load of work entailed in getting out new plates, by having passenger car tags expire at a different date from commercial tags.

day since the "fireball" was first spotted, Blitz said.

But now Blitz had been advised that no more flights will be authorized. That means any further flying searches will have to be done at personal expense. None are contemplated, Blitz indicated.

But Blitz is still convinced, "If we had the gas, I'm sure we'd find something, if we had to fly for a week," he said.

Mrs. Sommers, Canadensis Woman, Dies

Mrs. Grace Sommers, 61, of Canadensis, died at 4 a.m. Saturday in General Hospital after a short illness.

Born in Canadensis, she was the daughter of the late James and Josephine Utt Gravel. She had lived in Canadensis all her life, where she belonged to the Moravian Church and was a member of the Ladies Aid of that church.

Surviving are her husband, Chester; two daughters, Mrs. Josephine Woltjen, Newfoundland and Mrs. Jane Price, Canadensis; five grandchildren; two brothers, Arthur Gravel, Avoca and George Gravel, Canadensis.

Funeral services will be held Tuesday at 2 p.m. at the William H. Clark funeral home. Rev. Robert K. Stansfield, a former pastor of the Canadensis Moravian Church, will officiate.

Interment will be made in the church cemetery. Friends may call at the funeral home Monday after 7 p.m.

Although the average American spent about 27 per cent of his income on food in 1953, he would have spent only about 18 per cent if he bought the same types and amounts of items he bought in 1939.

Evangelist Addresses Local Church

Sunday night the Seventh-day Adventist Church on North Second St. was the scene of an evangelistic meeting entitled, "The Big Four of Prophecy" given by the local layman Charles Loney.

The topic was taken from Daniel 2, which tells about the four main world empires pictured in the Bible as beasts. Babylon, Medo-Persia, Greece and Rome were the names and order of these countries. Mr. Loney stressed the fourth beast which came out of the water or heavily populated territory. This was to be a religious as well as a political power and would be the last world empire until Christ returns to set up His kingdom.

Mr. Loney concluded the subject by emphasizing that the only reliable thing in this world is the word of God. As Solomon said in I Kings 3: "There has not failed one word of all His good promises."

Robert Hilliard lead in the singing. Greenwood Cortright was the master of ceremonies.

Report Clarified By Cole Circus

Washington (AP) — William Horstman, vice president of Cole Brothers Circus, has just described as "very erroneous" a report that the King Brothers Circus had bought all the physical equipment of the Cole circus.

Horstman said that "all that we have sold the King circus are four elephants, 10 horses, two tractors and two trucks." He said the Cole Brothers Circus still has a "lot of animals and equipment" and large winter quarters at Peru, Ind.

Engineer Is Credited With Saving Train

A three-and-one-half ton rock slid down the mountainside near Slateford yesterday morning, struck the highway then fell across Delaware, Lackawanna and Western railroad tracks.

Engineer Robert Masters, Scranton, on board the Hoboken-bound 11:38 Sunday morning train, was credited with preventing a serious dual rail accident when he spotted the rock blocking the tracks and brought the passenger train to a halt.

The morning train was moving "at a high rate of speed," but Masters reportedly brought it to a stop after seeing the huge rock less than 500 feet in front of the vehicle.

Conductor on the morning train was Joseph Finnerty, Scranton.

The two trainmen notified officials. Workers were sent to the scene in an effort to remove the rock.

Efforts to pry the rock from the tracks through the use of bars proved unsuccessful.

Masters, Finnerty and workmen flagged down the approaching west-bound Train No. 3, due into East Stroudsburg station at 12:25 p.m.

The workmen then used track-jacks in their efforts to clear the track; finally succeeded in rolling the rock off the track by 2 p.m.

Investigation revealed the rock had smashed concrete on Route 611 through the Delaware Water Gap region in two places.

Railway officials last night credited the quick thinking of Masters and conductor Finnerty with avoiding a possibly serious rail mishap.

When contacted by phone last night George Harbaugh, East Stroudsburg roadmaster for the railway, said he was filing a report with the Pennsylvania State Department of Highways on the near-accident.

Preliminary investigation of the area yesterday revealed that two more large rocks are balanced precariously on the face of the bluff above the roadway, officials indicated.

Yesterday's incident was the latest in a series of rockslides noted in the Delaware Water Gap region and the area of the new bridges. All other incidents involving falling rocks were reported along new highways in the area, however. It was the first case, reported recently, in which rail tracks had been blocked by rock falls.

Woman Cited After Crash

A Stroudsburg woman was cited for having no operator's license following a two-car collision at 4 a.m. Saturday a half mile north of that borough on Route 611.

Stroudsburg State police said she was Muriel O'Brien, 35, of 51 N. Tenth St., who was driving south. The other car was driven north by Patrick Sweeney, 44, Pittsburgh police said.

The two cars collided while passing, police said. Damages were estimated at $100 to the O'Brien auto and $400 to the Sweeney car. There were no injuries.

Hattie Mengle Services Held

Funeral services for the late Mrs. Hattie S. Mengle were held at 2 p.m. yesterday at Kresge funeral home, Brodheadville.

Rev. Adan Bohner officiated. Interment was made in Brodheadville Cemetery. Pallbearers were Lloyd Altemose, Martin Serafas, Harley Bond, Ralph Bond, Elmer Marsh and Frank Shick.

Illness Again Cuts Enrollment

Swiftwater — Four more pupils dropped out of Paradise School last week due to illness.

The new absences raised the total number of pupils "out of school" to 25.

Normal enrollment at the school is 69, according to Miss Audrey Hamblin, an instructor in the three-room building.

PRESIDENT DWIGHT D. EISENHOWER, officially opening the 1954 Red Cross campaign at the White House, receives a membership button from E. Roland Harriman, volunteer chairman of the organization. The goal of this year's campaign is $85,000,000 and 30,000,000 members.

Sales Tax Check Planned Of Suspicious Returns; Revenue Below Estimates

Harrisburg (AP) — The Revenue Department moved yesterday to clamp down on retailers who are holding out in their sales tax returns. Joseph C. Snyder, Sales Tax Bureau director, said a staff of 160 field auditors will start "in the next 10 days" a comprehensive checkup of suspicious tax returns.

"Our revenue to date is below expectations and we mean to find out why," he told a newsman. Snyder said erring retailers will be required to pay up or face prosecution.

With the rush of registering some 190,000 retailers and wholesalers out of the way, the bureau has been setting aside tax returns which appear to be lower than average for a particular business field.

In many instances, Snyder said, retailers have been found turning over less than one per cent of their gross taxable sales to the state in contrast to some averages of about 1.8 per cent.

Since many individual transactions at fractions of less than the even dollar go into a gross sale figure, it means that tax returns should be higher than one per cent tax—the actual tax rate.

The department has estimated the levy should bring in 135 million dollars in revenue in the current 1953-55 biennium.

Snyder described as "very exaggerated" a report that sales tax revenues are falling behind as much as a million dollars a month. He said however, he was unable to make an actual estimate.

He said there has been no break-down yet of returns which were due last Feb. 26. First returns due last Nov. 20 brought in 8 1/2 million dollars in contrast to a 13 million dollar estimate.

GOP Leaders To Meet Here On Candidate

Republican party chairmen from Monroe, Carbon and Northampton counties (15th District) will meet tonight at the Penn-Stroud to pick a replacement for Chauncey D. Howell, Easton attorney who withdrew from the race for U. S. Congress.

Howell was chosen at a Feb. 4 meeting in the Penn-Stroud to run against veteran Democratic officeholder Rep. Francis E. Walter.

Mr. Walter has held the U. S. office for 11 consecutive terms.

Attending the meeting tonight will be Ben K. Williams, Monroe; Paul Beattie, Carbon, and Kenneth F. Kressler, Northampton.

The Easton attorney retired from the race last week, blaming adverse criticism of his "slim chance" for election in the political fight for the congressional post.

He was one of several men considered for the job at the Feb. 4 meeting.

Driver Hurt When Auto Hits Culvert

East Mauch Chunk — A car driven by Paul P. Kimmel, this district, was demolished at 5 p.m. Saturday when it ran off the road and crashed into a culvert.

Lehigh State police said the car was valued at $750.

Kimmel was taken to Lehighton Hospital for treatment of cuts on his chin, tongue and right knee cap. The accident occurred five miles east of here.

14th Turnpike Traffic Death Is Statistic

Somerset, Pa. (AP) — Charles Paul Lindsey, 30, of Euclid, Ohio, became the 14th traffic victim of the year on the Pennsylvania Turnpike, when a truck in which he was riding slammed into the rear of a parked Turnpike Commission truck.

Patrick McKeon, 28, of Whiting, Ind., driver of the big tractor-trailer in which Lindsey was riding suffered a compound leg fracture. He is in fair condition at Somerset Hospital.

City Asks Court To Join Agency In Custody Case

New York (AP) — Action in a custody case involving the two children of executed atom spies Julius and Ethel Rosenberg has been put off until March 8.

At a brief, closed session in Children's Court, the city welfare department applied to join the Society for Prevention of Cruelty to Children as a petitioner in the case. Decision was reserved by Justice Jacob-Panken.

The society has asked action by the court on the ground that the children, Michael, 10, and Robert, 6, had been exploited for fund raising purposes while living with Mr. and Mrs. Abel Meeropol. The Meeropols have denied the accusation.

A State Supreme Court justice has sent the children to live temporarily with their grandmother, Mrs. Sophie Rosenberg, 65.

Scarlet Fever Case

One case of scarlet fever was reported last week in Stroudsburg schools.

The student was kept home from school, health officers said. No other reports of communicable diseases were made during the period.

Four County Firemen Set Up Plans For 57th Annual Convention June 18-19

Plans for the 57th annual convention of the Four County Firemen's Association were furthered at the meeting of the executive committee at the Fairview Hotel Co., No. 1, Mauch Chunk yesterday afternoon. A. F. Everitt, Stroudsburg chairman of the committee, presided.

Announcement was made that memory of Jim Thorpe, proposed new name for the Mauch Chunk and the 100th anniversary of East Mauch Chunk will be observed in connection with the firemen's convention.

The body of Thorpe, noted Indian athlete, was removed to a mausoleum in an East Mauch Chunk cemetery a few weeks ago. A 500-bed memorial hospital is also proposed in Thorpe's honor for the community. Mrs. Thorpe has visited the community several times since the change of name has been proposed.

George L. Hummel, president of the Firemen's Association, told of progress made in preparation for the annual convention and parade, June 18 and 19. The parade will be held on June 19. Parade literature goes out this week, Hummel said.

The convention, Friday, June 18, will be held at the East Mauch Chunk High School with the banquet that night in the hall at Memorial Park. A special program of entertainment is being arranged.

One of the highlights of the convention will be the memorial services at 11 a. m.

Reports submitted by J. Allison Everitt, Stroudsburg, showed there had been 18 deaths since June last year, the largest number in one year.

Earl Werkheiser, Wilson Borough, trustee and solicitor for the souvenir book, reported that the publication would be dedicated to Thorpe, the centennial of the convention borough and 57th anniversary of the fire organization. Satisfactory progress is being made in its preparation, Werkheiser said.

Announcement was made that two municipalities are in the field for the 1955 convention and parade: Stroudsburg and Hellertown. This will be decided at the coming June convention.

John V. Hufford, Allentown, president emeritus, 94 years old, was unable to attend yesterday's meeting due to illness. Nevin Fritzinger, Cementon, fourth vice president, was detained for the same cause. Charles E. Benfield, Allentown, member of the accounts committee, asked to be relieved from service due to ill health. President Hummel named Wilbur Noll, Lehighton, to fill the vacancy.

Charles L. Frank, Stroudsburg, of the accounts committee, was in attendance at the meeting when arrangements were made for the annual audit.

At the close of the business session, marked by the presence of all but six committeemen, luncheon was served by the host East Mauch Chunk company.

Parked Auto Is Damaged

East Stroudsburg police are investigating an accident in which a green parked car was believed damaged in front of 170 N. Courtland St. Saturday night.

According to a report to police, the car was struck a glancing blow by a vehicle which failed to stop. The accident occurred about 11 p.m., police said.

Urge Gift Of Surplus To Unemployed

Washington (AP) — Increased distribution of surplus butter and other government-held food to unemployed families was proposed yesterday by three Democratic senators.

Sen. Hill (D-Ala.), sponsor of the proposal, said about 186 million dollars of unused customs receipts could be used to finance the program.

Hill and Sens. Clements (D-Ky) and Fulbright (D-Ark) in a joint bill asked that Secretary of Agriculture Benson and Secretary of Labor Mitchell be given authority to buy and distribute the food.

"This bill offers the means for matching food surpluses with the food requirements of the unemployed and their families," Hill said in a speech prepared for Senate delivery.

In general, the bill would expand the present program under which agricultural surpluses are distributed without cost for school lunches and to aged and needy persons, and relief and charitable organizations.

Drama Club Selects Play

State Teachers College drama club members and students in the speech department have chosen a three-act mystery play, "The Visitor," for their second production of the season.

The play will be presented on April 28 and 29 in the campus auditorium under direction of faculty member Ralph Smith.

Short Water Supplies May Curtail Work

Youngstown, O. (AP) — Industrial plants in the Youngstown area will be forced to curtail operations next Thursday if a critical water shortage is not relieved, Mayor Frank X. Kryzan said yesterday.

Only a 79-day supply of water is in the Meander Reservoir and the city must act to conserve water for domestic use, he explained.

The mayor said all industrial users will be curtailed but there will be no shutdowns immediately, and no rationing will be ordered for homes until the supply dips to 30 days.

A meeting is planned today the mayor said, with labor and industry representative and officials from the nearby city of Niles to work out plans for the industrial curtailment.

Refuse Sugar Coated Pills

(From Publishers Auxiliary)

Using a change of pace that would have done Christy Matthewson proud, the New York State Society of Newspaper Editors has fired a couple of strikes for the free press.

The New Yorkers' rebuttal came after the state's medical and bar associations had dished up some curves that would hamstring coverage of medical and legal stories.

Softly, the editors reminded the state's medical society about the conspicuous lack of merit in a proposed joint code of ethical procedures that would regulate conduct in such "unrelated fields as the medical and journalistic professions."

Sternly, they repudiated a proposal before the bar association that would put stiff legislative restriction on publication of trial news. Mincing nothing, the group tagged the gag-rule for what it was: "A vicious attempt to interfere with the traditional spirit of open justice."

"This proposal," said a resolution passed by the editors, "would suppress the major news in trials in that it would prohibit counsel on both sides and all enforcement officials from making pertinent disclosures unless such disclosure is authorized by the court."

However plausibly it reads, the doctors' proposal spells discrimination—especially with respect to news regarding police patients. And, as the Buffalo Evening News points out, some clauses "of this so-called code are subject to interpretation which could very easily be transformed into straight censorship or press muzzling."

Doctors plugging the measure at the convention gave it the full treatment. It would allow them to "unbend" where ethics are concerned when talking news to the press. It was "designed to bring about a cordial relationship between press and physician within the framework of ethical conduct."

The editors didn't go for it. Listen to Oxie Reichler of the Yonkers Herald-Star: "If we give our approval of this code, we are being handed a sugar-coated pill which we will have asked for. We will have been operated on, and as working editors, we might as well be dead."

Freedom of information is not a sometimes thing. The people's right to know is an everyday battle that has to be fought and re-fought by the vigilance and guts of organizations like the New York editors who aren't afraid to stand up and be counted—even in the face of pious lobbyists.

'The Thumb' And You

"The Thumb" has taken its toll again. It has happened many times before; it will happen again.

It happens because you won't listen to your police when they warn you, again and again; Don't pick up hitchhikers! Paradoxically enough, it always happens because of your kind heart. There you are, driving along comfortably in your car, and there's "The Thumb" standing all alone by the side of the road. You stop and pick him up.

It happened only this week to a Camp Hill man. He gave a hitchhiker a lift, and "The Thumb" beat him up, stole his car.

The odds are with you? It's a 100-to-1 shot? Maybe so. But what if you become unlucky No. 100?

Also, little as he might like Joe's golf form, the President wanted to be sure nobody under him was put in the position of caddy for the Brooklyn dentist.

The biggest trout there looked very scared and it was our impression that he couldn't figure out whether he was supposed to fight, take the hurdles, cut a figure eight, score a hockey goal or make a political speech. A fight fan entered the Garden by mistake during the show and fled, exclaiming, "There was no going and no announcement. Just a bang! . . . and the joint was full of plugs, live ammunition dogs, seals, fish and tall stories. I got out without even finding out who the contestants was." . . . Mail Pay Subsidy To Air Line Is Up $2 Millions

Washington — The government's subsidy to the airlines has reached a new record high of $138,712,000.

That's the amount the Civil Aeronautics Board is asking for "mail pay" in the fiscal year starting July 1. The figure is $2,000,000 more than this year, and four times greater than the whole budget for this purpose in 1946.

Since the end of World War II, the government has spent more than $920,000,000 in airline subsidies.

The CAB estimates that actual cost of transporting the airmail constitutes only 28 percent of these payments. The other 72 percent, approximately $650,000,000, is straight subsidy.

Largest beneficiary of this direct financial aid is Pan-American Airways. In the last three years it has received a total of $108,574,000.

This significant information came to light at a private meeting of the House Appropriations Committee during questioning of Irving Roth, head of the CAB's Rates Section.

"How long has it been," asked Representative John Rooney (D., N. Y.), "since the CAB has examined the books of Pan-Am's various subsidiaries. This airline has extensive investments in numerous other corporations which operate foreign airlines, hotels, radio stations and other kinds of business. When did you last go over their books?"

"No complete audit of Pan-American has been performed covering the period subsequent to December 31, 1950," replied Roth. "The reason is that it has not been customary to perform audits of Pan-American's affiliated companies or of concerns in which Pan-American has an investment."

"I don't see why it shouldn't be customary to make such audits," snapped Rooney. "American taxpayers are pouring many millions of dollars into this corporation every year in outright subsidies, so the CAB, a government agency, should certainly examine the books of the company to check on how the taxpayers' money is being used."

At Rooney's demand the following major allocations in the new record-high subsidy budget were disclosed to the Committee:

Pan-American	$39,662,000
TWA	14,013,000
United	10,954,000
American	9,914,000
Northwest	6,972,000
Brantiff	5,550,000
Eastern	3,199,000
Frontier	3,015,000
Trans-Texas	2,700,000
North-Central	2,700,000
Alaska	2,620,000
Panagra (Owned jointly by Pan-Am & Grace Shipping Co.)	2,402,000

Economy Tips—Assistant Budget Director Rowland Hughes ran into an unexpected challenge when he earnestly assured the Joint Committee on the Economic Report of eagerness to find ways of saving government money.

Representative Wright Patman (D., Tex.), promptly pointed out two economies he claimed would save more than $280,000,000 a year.

Following are the highlights of this revealing discussion from the unpublished transcript:

"You say you are on the alert to find expenditures that are not justified," began Patman. "Well, I wrote your boss, Mr. Dodge, and called his attention to the fact that the Federal Reserve Act requires that a charge be made to member banks for clearing checks. For some unknown reason that is not being done and it is costing the government $100,000,000 annually. Now, if you are so eager to save money, I suggest you pick up that $100,000,000."

"I've heard about your correspondence with Mr. Dodge," said Hughes.

"I'm glad that," said Patman dryly, "how about doing something about it? And while you're at it, here's another suggestion. It is a matter of record that there is between $3,000,000,000 and $9,000,000,000 of government funds in 11,000 banks on which the government is not drawing one cent of interest. If these banks paid only 2 percent on this money, that would give the Treasury more than $180,000,000 a year. It is my contention these deposits are an absolute waste of public money."

"That is a subject, of course, for large discussion," said Hughes. "But I will call your suggestions to Director Dodge's attention."

George Sokolsky Says...

Anti-Communism Cause Is Damaged By Activities Of Newcomers To Battle

THE WARREN CASE

Although Chief Justice Earl Warren has been confirmed by the Senate Judiciary Committee, which assures confirmation by the Senate perhaps before this is printed, there is a side to the controversy that I feel needs discussion, namely, that the Communist arrow was shot at Earl Warren, hit or miss, by unnamed persons. The indiscriminate use of that paint-brush often by self-serving persons is doing the cause of anti-Communism great harm.

What is a Communist? 1. A Communist is a member of the Communist Party of the United States or its numerous front organizations;

2. One may be regarded as still a Communist who once joined the Party or its front organizations but who has taken no overt steps to disassociate himself from the affiliation. Ample means exist to establish bona fide dissociation;

3. A person may be regarded as pro-Communist who prefers the Marxist-Leninist concept of life and so proclaims;

4. A person may be regarded as pro-Communist who has for any reason whatsoever acted as an agent of the Soviet Universal State in any country but particularly in the United States even if he never joined the Communist Party.

These definitions I believe to be all-inclusive. When they are expanded to include persons with whom any of us disagree on particular issues, they become ridiculous. To say that Earl Warren is a Communist or supported Communists is without reason. It is such absurd positions that have resulted in the equally untenable attitude of the radio and television industries which define a controversial person as anyone about whom someone has said something disagreeable concerning his political views. When men and women are not permitted to work because of an uninvestigated, unanswered reference to an individual, then a grave injustice can be done. Every human being must have an opportunity to defend himself against charges of any kind in the United States.

Walter Winchell once invented the word, Hatriot, and this word represents a type of person who does not study, does not analyze, does not establish a premise but emotes with hatred. It is dangerous in any fight, in any movement to give the enemy a propagandistic opportunity to hit back because of a careless array of unchecked data or because of uninvestigated descriptions of persons, some of whom may even be on your side but utilize different methods. The McCarthy and Jenner Committees have been extraordinarily careful not to be caught in that trap.

During the past three or four years, many persons have pronounced themselves as anti-Communists who were not active before in any known anti-Communist work, and who by their attitudes prove that they do not know the subject. These bandwagon hoppers who often have personal axes to grind are doing great mischief, first because of their accusations are based on nothing but a difference of opinion, and secondly because they often use accusations to hurt a personal or political opponent.

I do not find that serious-minded anti-Communists, men and women who have been in this fight, some of them as far back as 1917, take a Hatriot attitude. Many of them labor day and night to redeem ex-Communists, to make their talents available for the great struggle against the Kremlin. Many of them sacrifice time and money and risk themselves to help a former party worker over the emotional threshold so that he will testify to the FBI or to a Congressional committee.

Often these Johnny-come-lates by their ignorance and lack of prudence undo—this arduous and devoted work by a public attack just at the moment when something important is being achieved. Such people, of course, have a right to their opinions and to their methods, but this much is true: they have thrived in their Hatriotism only because the older fighters in the cause of anti-Communism have been silent concerning some of the mistaken activities of the newcomers.

As the cause of anti-Communism is being damaged by the activities of the newcomers, particularly when they call Chief Justice Earl Warren a Communist, when it is so evident that there is a public revulsion against such uninhibited accusations, the time must come when the older and long-active anti-Communists will have to speak out for a more correct appraisal of the enemy and of the battle against him.

The kimono-kountry has 1,500 film temples. . . . Want an early case of Spring fever? Lend an ear to Tony Martin's platter, "Here," a smooooth ballad. . . . Jean Simmons, the lovely Britisher, proclaimed: "Anyone who doesn't love America must be a moron." (Hullo, Oona and Cholly Saplin). . . . Marilyn Monroe's description: "An actress is a piece of merchandise."

The celluloid version of "Top Banana," with Phil Silvers as Top Pevan, retains much of the stage click's hilarity. . . . Film reviewing has become a family project. The Herald Trib's appraiser wrote: "I don't think my wife will like the movie as well as I did." Henpecked, eh? . . . There's a musical hit to Rita Hayworth's original monicker: Margarita Carmen Cansino. . . . It's only money note: The upcoming "Helen of Troy" film will cost a paltry $6 million, it says here. . . . Yvonne DeCarlo's "huh?" of the week: "I'm all for sex, but you've got to play it with a sense of humor." Gad! Don't mistake Adam and Eve for Martin and Lewis!

Debbie Reynolds' future is as sunny as Debbie. She just inked a lush 7-year contract at a time when top twinklers are being dropped. . . . Espozay: Liberace's first name is Wladziu, (Jes' call me Wladziu Winchell). . . . Billboarding demands fancy fees, Hollywood spends $70 million annually to advertise its products. . . . How hoary are teevy cinemas? One of them had H. Bogart playing a romantic juvenile. . . . "The Final Test," a British movie, manages to make cricket seem extremely jolly. The most polite sport this side of tennis. . . . Ted Straeter's record, "It's All Right With Me," is better than all right. A torchy tantalizer. . . . Tony Curtis announced: "My wife calls me an affectionate puppy." (Arf! Arf!)

The Cinema-Scope version of "New Faces" (with Eartha Kitt and others popping in and out with gay specialties) was produced in 13 days. It should coin a hatful. . . . Richard Widmark, the expert gamuter, registers a minor squawk: "Sometimes you must get to the studio at nine o'clock in the morning and start out necking." That's almost as good as working for a living. . . . Pageant mag has a tip for movie dolls: Directions for obtaining a mink coat the hard way—by stitching it together at home. . . . Mrs. Gaynor's declaration of independence: "Must girls need a fling. To many a fling is the safety valve to the emotional pressure cooker." —He-Wid

Although teevy struck a blow at movie biz, it was a blessing for several film performers. Their careers were withering in Movieville until the networks rescued them. A. Sothern, J. Caulfield and L. Ball. . . . Have a touch of irony: Marion Brando got more publicity for not working than his work in films ever attracted. . . . The investment involved in the titanic celluloid empire is indicated by the following: The U.S. includes 21,000 Popcorn Palaces. Nevertheless, about 40 percent of a film's gross is derived from overseas. . . . Esther Williams' best picture is on Photo-play's page 35. Depicts Esther co-starring with her infant heiress.

Bella Darvi, the heaven in the "Hell and High Water" movie, is a Hollywood rarity: A brainy beauty. . . . If peppery Latin lulls are your dish, cook Hugo Winterhalter's waffle, "Latin Lady." . . . Deborah Kerr enhanced the "What's My Line?" panel. Is there anyone who looks better to teevy cameras than Deborah? . . . Movieville's dancing sparklers go into rigorous training for a month before the films start rolling. One of the most rugged chores. . . . Why anxiety is rampant in Celluloidia: There are only about 200 thespians under contract to studios. Several thousand others are free-lancing. . . . Jeff Chandler must be having fun. One movie mag links him with Terry Moore and a third with Susan Hayward. . . . Janet Leigh's statement: "My husband isn't perfect." (Oh, I don't believe it!)

Looking At Life —by Erich Brandeis

We went slithering down the icy road from our home in Connecticut to the main highway which, 1,400 miles South, leads straight down into deep Florida.

A little less than a week later, I was sitting under a palm tree, the temperature a little over 70, trying to write my column.

I say "trying" advisedly because you have no idea how lazy one gets down here and how, as the temperature goes up, the brain freezes and one feels like almost anything but work.

The car is parked under another palm tree. I had to put it under this particular tree because Roy Wedeking, the owner of the Gulf View Inn on Captiva Island, told us not to put it under the next one. That one is a coconut palm and, at any moment, one of the coconuts is liable to fall down and bust the car's roof.

When we left home the only "flowers" in sight were iceicles a foot long. Here, an hibiscus bush is in full bloom and in our room are sweet-smelling flowers picked outside our cottage. All around us are trees and bushes and flowers of strange shapes, colors and odors. The whole thing, to a Northerner, is like a dream.

Like all people from up North, we fell in love with Florida all over again, just as we have on every trip to this state—on the first day.

And, usually, when one falls in love, one does something about it, so, we went to a real estate agent in Fort Myers just across San Carlos Bay and had him show us some houses.

And on the trip with the real estate woman, a lady from Arkansas, we found out a whole lot of things about the sub-tropics which made us wonder whether we really do want to exchange the three months of Connecticut winter weather for seven or eight months of heat, mosquitoes and rain; whether we want to swap some not too unbearable cold for months of torrid heat, and whether we want to trade blizzards for tornadoes.

However, I have come to praise Caesar, not to knock him. And I am quite sure that when we are finished with our vacation trip and have enjoyed all its wonders and all its expenses, we will go back to our own home, turn the key in the doors, sign a sigh of contentment and say, "Gee, it's good to get home again."

I am not going to tell you about Florida. The travel folders can do that much better than I can. Nor am I going to make any comparisons between Florida and California, Connecticut, Indiana, Ohio, Texas, New York or Pennsylvania.

Everybody has his own tastes and every state has its own attractions. But I do advise anyone who can, to get away from home every now and then.

You read so much about men and women getting divorces from each other. You see their pictures, or perhaps you know them personally. Many are people of beauty, of brains, of all sorts of achievements.

"How can those folks get divorces?" you ask yourself. "They have everything!" Perhaps that's just it. Perhaps they have too much of everything. Perhaps they get tired of that "everything." Perhaps they should have gotten away from EACH OTHER occasionally and had a little less of "everything" for a little while.

I may have taken it along subconsciously as a symbol. But the key to our home is right in my pocket. Every once in a while, when I get drunk with all the beauty and gorgeousness of Florida, I touch that key, just to remind me that home is where the heart is.

Miss Janet Butz Is Bride Of George W. Prosser Jr.

Appenzell — Miss Janet Butz, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Morgan Butz, of Appenzell, became the bride of George W. Prosser Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. George W. Prosser, of Bethlehem on Sunday afternoon at 2 at the St. Mark's Lutheran Church in Appenzell.

The double ring ceremony was performed by Rev. Dr. E. T. Horn, pastor, in the presence of many relatives and friends. The church was decorated with greens and wedding bells while the altar vases held white snapdragons and carnations. Miss Marie Paul was pianist, and Walter Sebring of Tannersville was soloist. He sang "Through the Years," "Until," and "Thine Alone."

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of imported Chantilly lace with a fitted bodice and scalloped cathedral length train of lace over bridal satin and tulle.

Her fingertip veil was held by a crown of lace and seed pearls and she carried a white Bible on which rested a white orchid. The streamers were caught with lilies of the valley.

Mrs. Verdon Rustine, sister of the bride, was matron of honor, and wore a gown of cotton blue lace and nylon tulle with a blossom headband with a half veil. Her cascade bouquet was of mixed spring flowers.

Miss Elizabeth Wallingford was bridesmaid and wore a gown of shrimp lace and nylon tulle with a cascade bouquet of pink carnations.

Kathy Kilroy of Montclair, N. J., was flower girl, wearing a dress of yellow net and tulle. She carried a basket of mixed flowers.

Robert Lynch, of Virginia, uncle of the bridegroom, served as best man, while Weston Wardell, a cousin of the bridegroom, of New York City, and Larry Butz, brother of the bride, were ushers.

The bride's mother wore a gown of midnight blue with pink accessories and a corsage of pink carnations. The bridegroom's mother wore a print dress with matching accessories and a corsage of white carnations.

A reception for about 150 guests was held at the Tannersville fire hall, which was decorated with white streamers and bells. A four-tier wedding cake, decorated with a miniature bride and bridegroom, formed the centerpiece for the table.

The bride is a graduate of Pocono Township High School and St. Luke's Hospital of Nursing, Bethlehem. She is now a nurse at the Monroe County General Hospital.

Mr. Prosser is a graduate of Liberty High School, Bethlehem, and Lehigh University. He has been employed by a chemical company in Phillipsburg, N. J. After their wedding trip he will report to Alabama where he will become a member of the U.S. Air Force.

Virginia Peters Baptism Rites

Virginia Ann Peters, infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry F. Peters Jr., of East Stroudsburg, will be baptized at 11 a.m. tomorrow in East Stroudsburg Presbyterian Church.

Rev. Frank Wingerter, pastor, will officiate. The child is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Doolittle and Mr. and Mrs. Henry Peters Sr., all of East Stroudsburg.

Child Is Baptized

Saylorsburg — The infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Snyder, this place, was baptized during the morning service at St. Luke's Methodist Church on Sunday, Feb. 14. Rev. C. Clyde Levergood, pastor, officiated. The baby was named Sherrill Rene.

Show Benefits For Hospital Mount Up

A total of more than 1,800 persons saw the production of "The Emperor's New Clothes," it was estimated during the week-end, counting the 600 or 700 students from the college who attended the dress rehearsal. Saturday night's crowd again filled the auditorium with many of the first-nighters' back with their children for the production, directed by Dr. Earl Willhoite, from the adaptation of the Andersen fairy story with music by Harry Simeone and words by Jay Johnson.

The three were honored at a reception and buffet dance at the Penn-Stroud following Friday night's performance. A birthday cake presented by Wilbur Reinhardt, president of the Community Chorus, and Mrs. Gilbert Barthold, president of the General Hospital Auxiliary, honored Dr. Willhoite on his second show for the hospital and his own birthday.

Final proceeds from the concert cannot be determined until several outstanding bills have been paid, but Mrs. Barthold last night predicted that it would be a success financially as well as entertainment. Mrs. Barthold served as general chairman with Mrs. Fred Davis in charge of patrons; Mrs. George Marsh, program advertising; Mrs. Howard Flagler, tickets; Mrs. Paul Delaria, door.

In addition to the cast and the Community Chorus, the production benefited from the choreography of C. M. Bruch; the piano accompaniment of Marion Reinhardt and David Bayer; the trumpet by Ernest Farmer, Lewis Millard and Robert Schell; percussion Jane Marshall, stage crew, Lew Metz.

On-stage heralds were Samuel Van Aken and Paul Mannix.

Quilting Bees, Doughnuts, Peanuts St. Paul's Projects

Swiftwater — Ladies of the St. Paul's Reformed Church of East Swiftwater are having a busy winter. Several quilts have been quilted and tied during January and February, the most recent being a large size flower garden design for Mrs. LeRoy Kresge, which was worked on during the past two weeks.

Thread and needle wielders included: Pearl and Edith Werkheiser, Elizabeth Heckman, Bertha Tinker, Laurene Davis, Claire Shick, Ethel Bach, Beatrice Bush, Beulah Coffman, Elsie Rowe, Grace Kresge, Sadie Heller, Cora Warner, Elsie Mader, Alta Coffman, Virginia Leides, and Frances Sims; and guests, Mrs. Joseph Parsons, Mrs. Henry Pieper, and Mrs. Harold Walters all helped, as well as Mrs. Kresge herself.

Tentative plans have been discussed for making doughnuts one day in March, when the group of workers will enjoy an old time Dutch dinner of Schnitz and Knapp. The choir ladies are again busy on their peanut-roasting project.

A single-bed size quilt of Log Cabin design will be put in the frames at the home of Mrs. Richard Leides on Monday night, March 1, which is being done for Mrs. Nancy Palmer.

Clark Masks Are Hung In Scranton Museum

The 21 masks now on exhibit at the Eberhart Museum at Nay Aug Park, Scranton, are the work of a Monroe County sculptor, Violet Clark, of East Stroudsburg. They are to be on display for two months and include masks she has made of television and screen personalities, as well as the mask in use during "The Emperor's New Clothes."

The masks were also shown on a television show from the Scranton Station on February 16.

WSCS Plans Busy Meeting

Poplar Valley — The Women's Society of Christian Service of the Poplar Valley Methodist church will meet at the social hall on Wednesday afternoon, March 3. A pot luck luncheon will be served at noon.

All members are asked to bring their recipes to this meeting. Plans will be completed for the bake sale to be held on Friday, and some of the Easter boxes may be packed. This is in addition to the sewing in which all the members are taking part.

Party Not Meeting

Mount Pocono — The auxiliary of Pocono's Memorial Post 903 American Legion have cancelled their regular meeting on Tuesday night, but will have a card party at the home of Mrs. Matthew Curran. An invitation is extended to the members and friends. Mrs. Curran is chairman and Mrs. Ruth Kelly is assisting.

Gideons To Meet

The Gideons of the Stroudsburgs will hold a business meeting at the residence of Wilmer Albert, Wind Gap, Tuesday, March 2, at 7:30 p.m.

Miss Eleanore Garland Bride Of Douglas Harry Weiss

Brodheads — Douglas Harry Weiss, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Weiss, of Brodheads, took as his bride Miss Eleanore Allan Garland, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold B. Garland, of 635 Twelfth Ave., Bethlehem, on Saturday afternoon at 1 in the Rosemont Lutheran Church, Bethlehem.

Rev. William Ward performed the ceremony with Mrs. Anna Maria Gehris as organist and Mrs. William Spangler as soloist. Altar bouquets of white carnations and gladioli and a background of palms formed the background for the wedding party.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a scoop-necked gown of imported lace with a full skirt of alternating panels of permanently pleated lace and soft tulle. Her fingertip veil fell from a tiara of tiny lace petals edged with seed pearls and her cascade bouquet had a heart of white orchids surrounded by gladioli.

The matron of honor was the bride's sister, Mrs. Rae Williamson of Buffalo, N. Y. The bridesmaids were Miss Alicia Van Billard of Philadelphia and Miss Fern Garland, a cousin of the bride, also of Philadelphia, while Miss Cynthia Garland, sister of the bride was junior bridesmaid.

All of the bride's attendants wore gowns of silver pink in a Dior length. They were made of thick-and-thin paper tulle with long torso tops and skirts of sunburst pleats. They wore halos of silvered ivy leaves with garnet pinocchio roses and carried cascade bouquets of pink roses surrounded by garnet carnations.

Robert Denton Yoder of Reading was best man and the ushers were James Larsen of Wallingford, Pa., and John Glessner of Bethlehem.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the parish social hall, which was decorated with ivy leaves and white carnations. After a wedding trip to Bermuda, Mr. and Mrs. Weiss will make their home in Bethlehem.

The bride is a graduate of Bethlehem High School and State Teachers College, Kutztown, and a teacher in the Bethlehem School district.

Mr. Weiss was graduated from Chestnut Hill High School and Pennsylvania State University and is a member of Alpha Tau Omega Fraternity. He is an industrial engineer.

Unable to be there were Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Schauler and family and Mr. and Mrs. John Gamble and family of Media, Pa.

Frank Koerner Is Honored On 80th Birthday

Mount Pocono — A surprise party was held in honor of Frank Koerner's 80th birthday at his home in Mount Pocono on February 24.

Those who came to pay their respects included Mr. and Mrs. Sheldon Kresge, Connie Sue Kresge, Olive Jane Kresge, Mr. and Mrs. Russell Koerner, Albert Koerner, Betty Koerner, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Steele, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Engle Jr. and daughter, Patsy Ann, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Engle Sr. and James Koerner, all of Mount Pocono. Miss Myrtle Koerner of Skytop paid her respects earlier in the week.

Portland GS Troop Farewell For A Member

Portland — The Girl Scout troop of Portland and vicinity held a farewell party for one of their members, Elaine Nicholson, who is moving to Danielsville. They presented her with a gift, and she gave a dramatic reading.

Lois Rutt, president of the troop, presided. It was announced that more than 200 boxes had been sold in the recent cookie sale. Miss Ruth Williams, Scout Leader, and Mrs. Horace Rustling, assistant, and 33 members attended.

Guild Meeting

St. Mary's Guild of Christ Episcopal Church will meet at the parish house on Tuesday afternoon at 2:30.

Twin Sons Weigh In At Hefty 16 Pounds

Twin sons, whose weight totaled a husky 16 pounds, were born on Saturday morning to Mr. and Mrs. William H. Snyder at their home, 192 Lennox Ave.

The largest, named Edward Charles, weighed 9 pounds; and only slightly smaller was Edwin Carl, 7 pounds.

Mr. and Mrs. Snyder have four older children, Marilyn, Diane, Billy and Ronnie.

Friendly Class Has Meeting At Fifth St. Mission

The Friendly Class of the Fifth Street Presbyterian Mission met at the mission on Friday night. The meeting was opened in prayer by the president, Gladys Marsh, and was followed by the reading of the secretary's report by James Bradshaw and the treasurer's report by Barbara Garis.

Favorable comment was received regarding the recent travel films shown at the mission and tentative plans were made to show more films at a later date. The president introduced the "Gold Medal Plan" to the group—the plan whereby coupons are saved to boost the treasury funds. The plan was unanimously accepted.

Entertainment was provided by James Bradshaw who presented a travel quiz about Pennsylvania cities. A brief devotional period followed in which the class heard a missionary's report, read by Gladys Marsh, concerning personal experience of missionaries in China before their recall to this country.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Herbert Pooley and Mrs. James Marsh.

Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. John Neipert and daughter, Dorothy; Mr. and Mrs. William Barry, Mrs. Donald Barry, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Pooley, Misses Mildred Kintner and Barbara Garis, Pierre Lake and daughter, Joan; James Bradshaw and Gladys Marsh.

Brownie Troop Choose Leaders And Plan Party

Brownie Troop 28 which meets at the East Stroudsburg Baptist Church has been active selling Girl Scout cookies and has been very successful, their leaders report.

New leaders have been elected as follows: Lilies of the Valley, Diane Staples, leader, and Barbara Treible, treasurer; Tulips, Ruth Ann Savage, leader, and Patsy Hoffman, treasurer, and Roses, Jeanne VanCampen, leader and Brenda Martz, treasurer.

The Brownies have planned holding a doll party to highlight their next meeting.

The group expressed their appreciation of the services of Sheldon Hirshbaum, an Eagle Scout, for teaching them the fine points of square dancing.

The leaders of Troop 28 are Mrs. Morton Barrow and Bernice Werkheiser, the co-leaders being Mrs. Fatzinger and Mrs. Mary Mursch.

Museum Rooms Open Tuesday

Because of popular request, the historical museums in the Stroudsburg Community House will be opened for still another Tuesday afternoon from 2 to 4 p.m. on March 2. The museum has been opened every Tuesday throughout February. Miss Lulu Shafer and Mrs. Milo Rassy will be in attendance this week to assist in showing the rooms to anyone interested.

Tallada-Ladlee Wedding At Grace Lutheran Church

Miss Lila Mae Ladlee, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Foster H. Ladlee, of 609 North Courtland Street, East Stroudsburg, became the bride of Clair Arthur Tallada, son of Mr. and Mrs. Spencer Tallada, of Tannersville, at 3 o'clock on Saturday afternoon before the candle-lit altar of Grace Evangelical Luth. Church, East Stroudsburg. The cross-centered altar, which formed the setting for the marriage, was graced with bouquets of white snapdragons. The double-ring ceremony was solemnized by Rev. William F. Wunder, Grace Church pastor, in the presence of a large congregation of friends and relatives.

Miss Lila Bunnell, Grace Church organist, presided at the console and played a medley of nuptial melodies prior to the wedding. Walter H. Sebring was tenor soloist. He sang "I Love You Truly" and "O Promise Me" before the marriage and "The Lord's Prayer" during the wedding prayers as the bridal couple were kneeling before the altar on a white satin pillow.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, was attired in a white nylon-net wedding gown with finger-tip veil. She wore matching accessories and carried a colonial bouquet of white rose-buds, sweet peas and carnations. Her sister, Miss Judy Ladlee, served as maid-of-honor. She was attired in a yellow nylon-net street length dress with matching accessories and carried a colonial bouquet of mixed Spring flowers.

Mrs. Lois Jennings and Mrs. Janet Hendricks, sisters of the bride, were bridesmaids. They were attired in pink and blue nylon net street length dresses respectively with matching accessories and each carried colonial bouquets of variegated Spring blooms.

The bridegroom's mother wore a Navy-blue tulle street length dress with matching accessories and a corsage comprised of red rose-buds. The bride's mother wore a black and white tulle street length dress with black accessories and also wore a red rose-bud corsage.

William VanWhy was best man and Bruce Meddler and LeRoy Hendricks, brother-in-law of the bride served as ushers.

Immediately after their wedding a reception for 100 guests was held at Shaffer's Inn, Oswego Park, where a three tiered wedding cake formed the center of the festively decorated bridal table. The bride was graduated from the East Stroudsburg High School with the Class of 1953 and is employed at Ernie and Claire's Restaurant, Milford Crossing. The bridegroom attended Pocono High School in Tannersville and then served in the American Zone in Germany for three years. He is employed at The Celanese Corporation in Belvidere, N. J. The newlyweds will make their temporary residence in Tannersville.

Of the 36 signers of the Declaration of Independence 23 were college men.

Founders Day Meeting Of Portland PTA

Portland — The meeting of the PTA of the Portland School district was held on Thursday night in the school auditorium. Mrs. John Ribble, president, presided. Mrs. Charles Pysner read the scripture followed by a prayer by the president.

Tentative date for a card party was set for May 8. A bakeless food sale was planned for the week of March 1. The Easter egg hunt for the pre-school children will be held on April 14. Mrs. Walter Emery and Mrs. Horace Rustling were appointed to revise the by-laws. A Founder's Day gift of $3 was given.

Paul Morton, seventh grade teacher, was in charge of the program, which consisted of a re-enacting of the re-organization of the PTA in 1949. The pupils took the part of the officers and members, after which they sang a group of popular songs.

Refreshments were served in the cafeteria by the fifth grade mothers.

Combination Washer, Dryer In One Unit

The Combination Washer and Dryer In One Unit . . . Twin City Television, owned and managed by E. R. Fellenner at 1186 W. Main Street in Stroudsburg carries the only laundry unit ever developed to dry as well as wash your clothes automatically in one continuous operation!

A single setting of the Duomatic dials and your clothes are thoroughly washed then completely dried — while you're away — while you play — while you sleep.

No waiting, no waiting, no waiting — you're finished with washday in seconds.

The Duomatic washes your clothes in warm or hot water — spins water out of clothes evenly, safely — triple-rinses with clean, fresh water and completely dries all automatically. And — you have an automatic Speed-Soak that takes only a few minutes for even the grimmest clothes.

Here are the reasons why the Bendix Duomatic Washer-Dryer does the world's finest laundering . . . safely, more economically:

Gentle, Thorough Tumble-Action Washing. Only the patented Bendix Tumble-Action method safely washes the new miracle fabrics automatically. So thorough too, it's perfect for even grubby overalls. Cottons and linens in your regular wash are a breeze. Tumble-Action washing is as safe and gentle as hand washing . . . babies your clothes automatically.

THE CATERPILLAR DIESEL as this picture proves is really a worker around the Farm or Orchard. At the Shoemaker Orchards in Mt. Bethel they find this Caterpillar Diesel D2 Tractor and Tool Bar with front blade attachment very useful in off season for land clearing operations. This is just another of the many uses you'll find with your Caterpillar Diesel. Now is the time to check with Van D. Yetter Jr., your local Caterpillar Dealer at Marshalls Creek for full particulars on a Caterpillar model to suit your requirements. Phone 2832 today and Van will send you a FREE booklet on Caterpillar Tractors.

Diamond T Tilt-Cabs At Cyphers

If you're in the trucking business you'll be interested in the new Diamond T Tilt-Cab models that give three great money-saving advantages. The full Diamond T line is handled in this area by Claude S. Cyphers, 548 Ann St., Stroudsburg. Diamond T's new Tilt-Cabs come in four great new models the product of more than $1,000,000 of development and testing.

Wheelbases are much shorter on Tilt-Cab models. This enables you to utilize present body lengths with shorter wheelbases . . . or you can use much larger bodies with the same wheelbase. Much more chassis and payload weight is placed on the front axle . . . allowing you to carry extra legal pay-load on the rear axles. As tractors, Diamond T Tilt-Cab models readily handle 35-foot trailers without exceeding 45-foot overall limitations.

Shorter wheelbases, wider tread front axles and shorter overall lengths give Diamond T Tilt-Cab models unsurpassed maneuverability. Passing is easier . . . traffic is negotiated in less time with less trouble . . . backing and parking can be accomplished with less effort . . . turning requires less space.

Conventional-type truck with 15-foot body requires 62 feet for turning circle, while comparable Tilt-Cab truck with same body requires only 44½ feet. Tilt-Cabs get deliveries out faster . . . more load per trip and more trips per day.

Mine Water Drainage Tunnel Needed In Area

Anthracite Mines Are In Danger

Washington (AP)—Pennsylvania's hard coal mines will be flooded out of existence in 10 years unless something is done soon about the area's dangerous mine-water problem, Congress was told yesterday.

S. H. Ash of the U. S. Bureau of Mines told a House Appropriations subcommittee that the amount of underground water is so vast—106 billion gallons in more than 150 pools that piecemeal efforts will never solve the problem.

Hence, he said, the best solution appears to be the construction of a 137-mile tunnel from Scranton, Pa., to the tidewater of the Chesapeake below Conowingo Dam, Md., with lateral tunnels feeding into the main one.

The main tunnel, whose cost he estimated at 250 million dollars, would pour the mine water into Chesapeake Bay at the rate of 325,000 gallons a minute.

Ash did not include it in his testimony, which was given in closed session last month and not made public until today, but he told a reporter that the water would not be injurious to the animal or plant life of the Chesapeake.

"It wouldn't amount to a hill of beans," he said. "It would be slightly acid but it would be neutralized in no time."

Authorized by a law introduced by Rep. Fenton (R-Pa.), the Bureau of Mines has spent more than a million dollars studying and making engineering tests on how to cope with the mine water problem. For example, about 10,000 drill holes have been made in the Susquehanna River valley to determine the possible routes of the tunnel and its laterals.

Ash, chief of the bureau's safety branch, said it is hoped that the study can be completed by July and that Congress thereafter would be provided with a detailed plan.

It is envisaged, he testified, that the federal government would pay the cost of the main tunnel, Pennsylvania would pay for the laterals and the anthracite industry would pay for pumping the water from the mines into the laterals. No estimate was given of the cost of the laterals. But the industry is well aware of the cost of pumping.

Right now approximately 30 tons of water must be pumped for every ton of coal mined—a big factor in the increased price of hard coal.

The water, some from underground springs and some from surface drainage, has been a problem for many years. But it has been growing worse because as mines are abandoned—because they are worked out or because the demand for anthracite has decreased—they fill with water and thus create additional, hazardous pressures against the walls of adjoining mines.

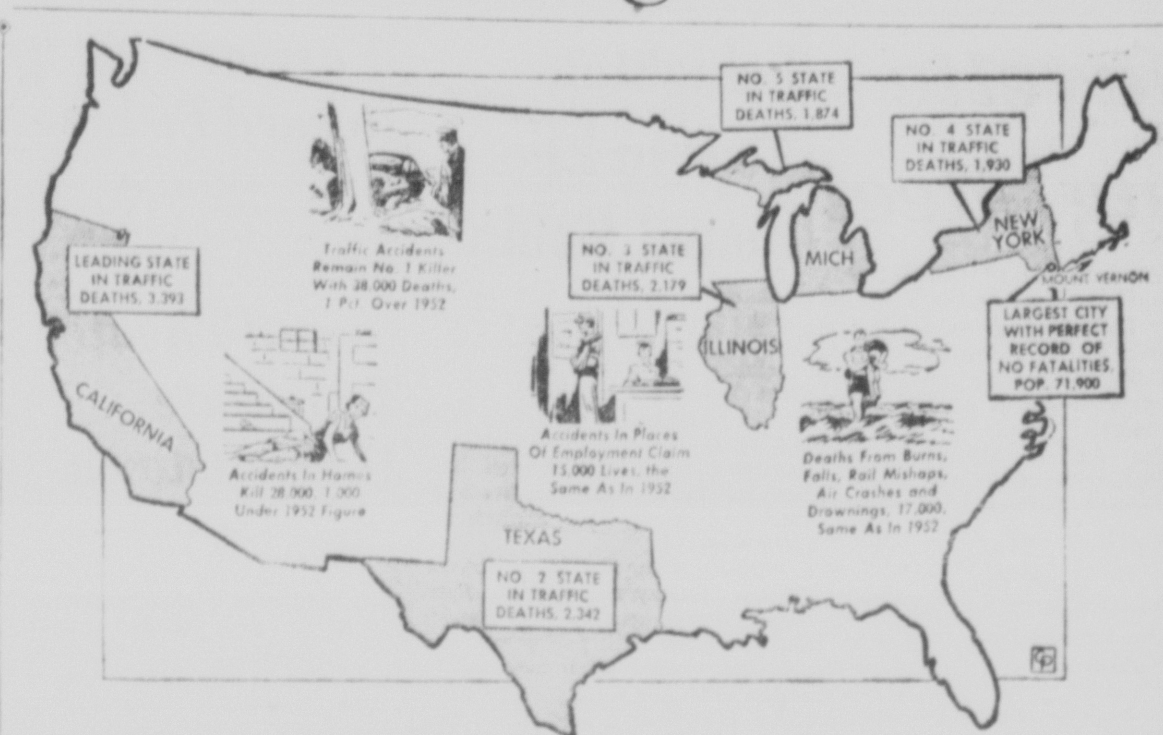

Furthermore, Ash told the subcommittee, presided over by Fenton, that there are more than 3,000 abandoned bottle-neck coal holes in the area that collect rain and other surface water and transport it underground.

Although the anthracite region of northeastern Pennsylvania is immediately affected, the mine-water problem is of concern to the whole United States because if the entire underground area becomes flooded approximately eight million tons of hard coal will be lost, perhaps forever. And that is approximately twice as much anthracite as has been mined in the history of the industry.

2,178,400 Jobless

Washington (AP)—The Bureau of Employment Security reported officially that unemployment among workers covered by unemployment insurance rose to 2,178,400 for the week ended Feb. 13. This is the highest since February, 1950 when insured unemployment was 2,333,900.

HOW SOME OF THE 95,000 ACCIDENT DEATHS in 1953 were distributed is indicated above. The total is more than triple the number of Americans killed in the Korean War, says the National Safety Council.

Web Of Circumstantial Evidence Will Be Sought In Trial Of Accused Phantom Slayer

Greensburg, Pa. (AP)—The Commonwealth will try to weave a web of circumstantial evidence in seeking a first degree murder conviction of John Wesley Wable, accused phantom slayer of the Pennsylvania Turnpike who goes on trial on a murder charge today.

Wable's case touched off a battle over ban of news photos of court cases which press bodies are now fighting.

Dist. Atty. L. Alexander Sculo of Westmoreland County said the commonwealth's case against Wable will be built entirely on circumstantial evidence.

"We have to build this thing up," Sculo said. "There are no eye witnesses. It's all circumstantial."

Wable, 24, a lanky youth from Ohio, near Uniontown in southwestern Pennsylvania, is accused of killing two drivers as they slept in the cabs of their trucks along the Turnpike last July.

The victims, killed just three days apart, were Harry F. Pitts, 29, of Bowling Green, Va., and Lester B. Woodward, 29, of Duncannon, Pa.

A third truck driver, John K. Shepherd, 34, of West Alexander, Pa., was wounded in the head a few days after the killings but recovered. He was shot as he slept in his truck in Ohio near the western terminus of the turnpike.

Wable will go on trial first in the death of Pitts. The district attorney said he will ask for the death penalty.

Sculo said the trial will probably last about a week.

"It all depends on how much difficulty we have selecting a jury," he said. "It might take a day and a half to get enough jurors."

He said some 70 witnesses will be called to testify for the commonwealth.

State Police Capt. Jackson Dodson said last October—shortly after Wable's capture—that Wable signed a statement implicating himself in the shooting but denying he was the triggerman. Dodson added:

"We have little doubt that Wable is in this thing alone. At the present time we are not looking for anybody else. He may claim another man pulled the trigger, but our information just won't support that. . . . We consider any reference to another person in this case a pure myth."

It was the wounding of Shepherd that touched off the search for Wable and his subsequent capture by police in New Mexico. Shepherd told police his wrist-watch was stolen in the shooting. It was found in a pawn shop in Cleveland and linked with Wable.

Police said Wable told them a Pittsburgh resident named "Parks" was the triggerman. However, they said, a check on Wable's story showed it was false.

News Suppression Protests Involve Lycoming Prison Board Official's Rulings

Harrisburg (AP)—Theodore A. Serrill, general manager of Pennsylvania Newspaper Publishers Assn., said yesterday "every consideration" will be given to new protests of news suppression in Pennsylvania.

The latest incident arose in Williamsport where the Lycoming County Prison Board ruled that it must clear news of "unusual nature" in the county prison.

It came on the heels of an order by Westmoreland County judges prohibiting news photographers from taking pictures of prisoners in the courthouse or jail.

Judge Charles Scott Williams, Lycoming County prison board chairman, denied any attempt at news suppression, explaining:

"The rule was aimed at giving notice to a responsible member of the board of important news from the jail before it goes to the press. There's no intention of suppressing news."

The board issued a new regulation which said the warden may have news of "routine nature" such as commitment or discharge of prisoners, but added:

"Any matter having to do with administration policy, extraordinary occurrences or anything of an unusual nature shall be referred by the warden to the president of the board. . . . no picture by press photographers shall be taken inside the prison except with permission of the board."

All three Williamsport newspapers—the Grit, Sun and Gazette-Bulletin—protested the ruling.

Editor Kenneth D. Rhone opposed the ruling in "principle" and said he feels that "in practice" it would work a great deal of harm in impeding the free flow of news.

Sun editor Paul Gilmore said the regulation "threatened prompt and accurate news reporting" of jail activities.

They said they would protest to the PNPA. Serrill said he had not

Hawley To Battle Waymart For Cage Title

Newfoundland — Hawley and Waymart will meet in the Armory in Honesdale tomorrow night for the championship of the Wayne County Basketball Conference and the right to represent the loop in the Pennsylvania Interscholastic Athletic Association class "C" playoffs.

The two teams deadlocked for top honors in both divisions of the conference by registering victories Friday night. The Warriors romped over Honesdale, 75-41, while Hawley escaped with a 44-40 verdict over Greene-Dreher-Sterling in a contest which was marked by lack-lustre performances by both teams.

Fifth Straight
Waymart, winners of the championship every year since the loop was formed, will be shooting for its fifth consecutive crown against the Buckhorns, who have made one of the most remarkable comebacks in local basketball history. Compiling a 1-14 record in WCC play last season, the charges of Coach Maurice Bobst captured the Hawley-Lake Wallenpaupack Chamber of Commerce Invitational to wind up that season and continued their winning ways this year with a 15-1 record.

Game time for the championship tussle will be 8 p.m. Doors will open at 7:45.

In another Friday night game, Preston bested Pleasant Mount, 71-63. With only one contest remaining on the loop schedule, Lake Township at Moscow tomorrow night, the standings are as follows:

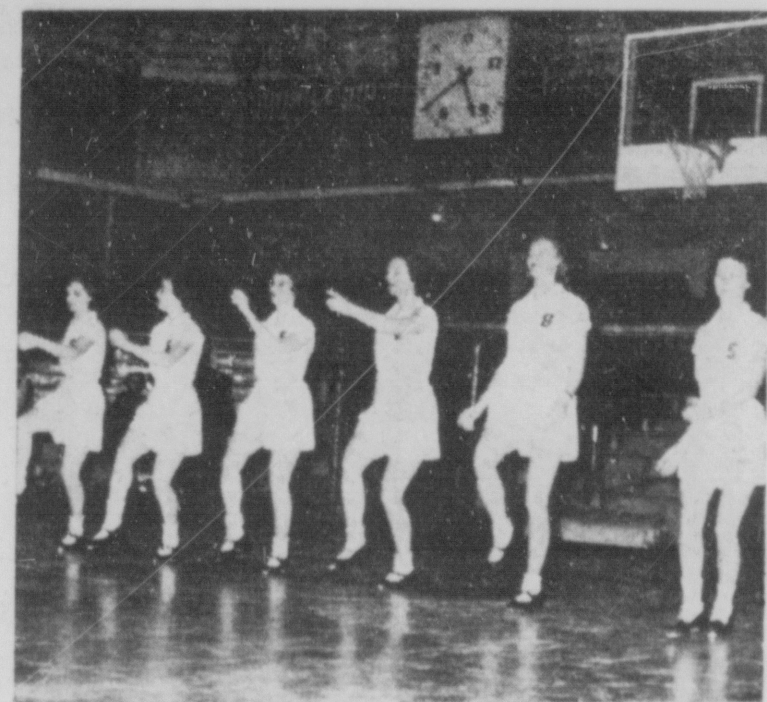

NORTH
Team	W	L	Pct.
Hawley	11	1	.917
Waymart	11	1	.917
Lake Township	7	5	.583
Preston	7	5	.583

Naguib Symbol Was Too Much For Revolvers

By William L. Ryan
AP Foreign News Analyst

The swift turnabout in Egypt might be explained by the fact that those responsible for the coup aimed at President Mohamed Naguib realized suddenly they were placing themselves in grave danger.

The abrupt overthrow of a popular idol—the first man to personify hope for Egypt's impoverished masses—would be difficult to explain. But this apparently was not the major consideration in the turnabout.

Lt. Col. Gamal Abdel Nasser and the young officers who engineered the movement which came to be known as "The Blessed Revolution," suddenly found to their dismay that the man they put forward as simply a figurehead had grown in stature far beyond that. Naguib had become an idolized symbol to the nation of a dream that one day it would struggle out of its morass of poverty and corruption.

The overthrow of Naguib immediately set old forces in motion. It raised the possibility that the coup could be used to discredit the entire "liberation movement" which had been carried out in Naguib's name. With a split among the new rulers, the opportunity was presented to the extremes of both left and right for alliances aimed at wrecking the 1952 revolution.

The right, represented by the Monarchist and the dispossessed leaders of the Wafd party, would enter into alliances in the hope of restoring themselves to power. The extreme left, represented by the outlawed but strong Communists and their sympathizers, would encourage such unions in the hope of throwing the country into political turmoil.

The leaders of Egypt's revolution cannot have forgotten how joyously the Communists had joined in the bloody rioting of Jan. 26, 1952, when a large part of Cairo was wrecked. The only aim of the Communists was chaos. It can hardly be considered a coincidence that after the brief overthrow of Naguib, with the smell of riot again in the air, the university students once again moved into the vanguard of the turmoil.

The strength of the Communists in the universities of Egypt has been a source of alarm. At present among the 35,000 students in four big government universities, conservative estimates place the number of hard-bitten Communists and the number of their sympathizers on the left, subject to being used as tools, at about 7,000.

Egypt's 20 million population is about 80 per cent illiterate and easily stirred to violence and riot.

Neither the Communists, to whom the name of Naguib has been poison, nor the extreme right, which had just as little love for him, would hesitate to use his overthrow to further their own aims. While the pressure of popular will may not have been the chief reason for the reverse of the Nasser coup, the possibilities could not have been lost upon Nasser. Nobody ever doubted that Nasser was the real boss of the liberation movement—nobody, unfortunately, except Egypt's impoverished masses. Naguib, presented as the model of all Egyptian virtues, was supposed only to have been the front for the movement, with the young officers pulling strings in the background.

The West can well hope that the crises has been resolved. Political instability in the Middle East is bad news for the West and good news for Moscow.

Auto Takes Over Humor In The News

By Charles Merce

New York (AP)—The automobile caused a lot of consternation last week as mankind maintained its war against the machine.

A Tulsa, Okla., cop stopped a motorist to compliment him on his superbly cautious driving. The fellow had been driving seven years without a license.

Philadelphia police halted a youth who was zig-zagging his car up a street. His explanation: He was trying to scare a case of his cups out of his girl.

The police chief of Milford, Mass., is going to ask the town to ban "leering" at people in automobiles.

Near Woodstock, Ill., a horse not only leered at an auto. He kicked it several times, saving in one side of the car. The startled driver said he doubted if his insurance company would believe that story.

A furniture dealer in Boise, Idaho, started giving away a used car free with each purchase of a television set.

But his offer would not have meant much to a fellow in Detroit who has abandoned the automobile altogether. He now drives three miles downtown to work in a little red "dog-wagon" pulled by three dogs. Makes it in 18 minutes, too.

Harvey Rotzel, She received many telephone calls honoring her birthday.

Letter By Stevens Formed Basis For McCarthy Feud With Army's Top Officials

By Robert S. Allen

Washington—An unpublished letter played the deciding role in that fiercely controversial Capitol Hill meeting between Army Secretary Stevens and Senator Joe McCarthy and the Republican members of his Committee.

This letter, written by Stevens last December, stated the Army was aware of Major Irving Peress' leftist background and would discharge him.

McCarthy waved this letter at the closed door Capitol meeting and truculently announced he would make it public unless Stevens bowed to his demands. McCarthy indicated he would publicize the letter in a TV broadcast.

Stevens tried to explain the mix-up that caused the promotion of Peress from Captain to Major before he left the Army at his own request. But McCarthy refused to be placated. And he was backed by Senators Karl Mundt (R-SD) and Everett Dirksen (R-ILL).

Dirksen was one of Stevens' three sponsors for appointment as Secretary of the Army. When Dirksen saw the letter, he threw up his hands.

"Your position is untenable," he told Stevens. "You'll never be able to explain this letter in the light of what subsequently happened, no matter how blameless you may be. This letter is damning and you can never explain it. That was the big mistake the Democrats made; they were always trying to explain away their blunders. You're hooked and you might as well admit it."

In the end, after two hours of arguing and pleading, Stevens acceded to the statement later given the press by Mundt.

Note: Stevens went to the Capitol on the advice of Defense Undersecretary Roger Kyes. Kyes told him to do that after a telephone conversation with Vice-President Nixon.
